

"Should Ethics Always Be More Important Than Law?"

Team A : Ethics First

↻ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:29am

Ethics is the foundation of every law.

🗨 0

↻ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:32am

Ethics teaches us to do the right thing, even when no one is watching.

🗨 2

santhosh Jul 25, 2026 04:36am

That's true, but not everyone follows ethics. Laws are needed because they make people accountable, whether someone is watching or not.

Giridurgesh Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

but the laws are monitoring the ethics in the right manner

↻ WISE OWL Jul 25, 2026 04:33am

Before a law is created, people first decide what is right and wrong.

🗨 1

Kavishhhhhhhhh Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

No one is above the law

↻ LOKESH S Jul 25, 2026 04:34am

People followed moral values like honesty and kindness before written laws existed.

🗨 0

↻ JAYAPRSKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Ethics is subjective, but laws create a common standard.

🗨 0

↻ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Law tells us what is legal ,ethics tell us what is right

🗨 0

↻ WISE OWL Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Nilavan

Before a law is created, people first decide what is right and wrong.

🗨 0

↻ LOKESH S Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Great leaders are remembered for ethics, not just following laws.

0

↩ JAYAPRSKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Ethics is subjective, but laws create a common standard.

1

Kavishhhhhhhhh Jul 25, 2026 04:50am

The law should serve everyone equally, without discrimination

↩ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:36am

"Many laws have changed over time because ethical values changed first."

0

↩ NOVA FINDER Jul 25, 2026 04:36am

"A common standard without ethics can still lead to injustice."

1

Kavishhhhhhhhh Jul 25, 2026 04:51am

Justice begins where the law is respected

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

Ethics is the foundation upon which just laws are built.

1

Kavishhhhhhhhh Jul 25, 2026 04:53am

Without law, there can be no justice

↩ MOHAMMED IBURAHIM M Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

Many laws that were once legal are now considered as unethical . So ethics always remains pillar for innocent peoples

0

↩ VIJAY A Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

sometimes laws can be unfair so ethics helps people recognize and change unfair laws

0

↩ WISE OWL Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

Laws are written only after society agrees something is ethically right or wrong.

0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

Law is the foundation of justice, order, and equality in society 😎

0

↩ LOKESH S Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

If people only obey laws without questioning them, injustice continues.
Ethics encourages people to challenge unfair laws.

0

MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

mohammed sabiq

Just because many people fail to follow ethics doesn't make ethics less important. Many people also break laws. Does that mean laws are not important?

1

Kavishhhhhhhh Jul 25, 2026 04:56am

Justice is meaningful only when laws are applied fairly

KESHAVAN KUMAAR SS Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Ethical beliefs belong to individuals, while laws represent society's collective decision.

0

KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Law is the foundation of justice, order, and equality in society 😎

0

PALLAVI Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Ethical behavior creates trust between people, businesses, and governments.

0

BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Ethics asks us to consider the consequences of our actions on people, not merely whether those actions are permitted.

0

DIVYA. M Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Without ethics, laws lose their true purpose.

0

JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Can a law ever be truly effective if the majority of society believes it is morally wrong?

0

NILAVAN Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Laws punish after the crime; ethics prevents the crime.

0

↩ LOKESH S Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Laws tell us what we can do. Ethics tells us what we ought to do. And it is the 'ought' that builds a better society

🗨 0

↩ MUBINA Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Ethics guides us to do what is right, even when the law is silent

🗨 0

↩ FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

If ethics are more important than law, why do countries need legal systems?

🗨 0

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

What happens when two good ethical principles conflict with each other—how can the law resolve it?

🗨 0

↩ FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

If an ethical decision harms others but doesn't break the law, is it still the right decision?

🗨 0

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

What happens when two good ethical principles conflict with each other—how can the law resolve it?

🗨 0

↩ PALLAVI Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Without ethics, people may follow the law only to avoid punishment.
Ethics inspires people to do good even when no one is watching.

🗨 0

↩ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

People should do good because it is right, not because they fear punishment

🗨 0

↩ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Following the law doesn't always mean doing the moral thing.

🗨 0

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

A society built on ethics thrives, a society built only on law merely survives.

🗨 0

↩ NILAVAN Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Every good law begins as an ethical principle. If ethics disappeared today, laws would lose their purpose

🗨 0

↩ RITESH Y Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

legal systems only improve in conflicts because ethics come first

🗨 0

↩ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Laws can change with governments, but ethical values like honesty and kindness remain important.

🗨 0

↩ MOHAMMED IBURAHIM M Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Laws can make people obey, but ethics makes people care. A society built only on laws survives, but a society built on ethics thrives.

🗨 0

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Ethics is the foundation of every peaceful and progressive civilization

🗨 0

↩ FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

If a law is legal but unethical, should people follow the law or their ethical principles?

🗨 0

↩ LOKESH S Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Law creates order, ethics creates character

🗨 0

↩ DIVYA. M Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Laws cannot cover every situation,,but ethics can guide our decisions

🗨 0

↩ GUNDEKJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Professionals such as doctors, teachers, and engineers rely on ethics as well as laws

🗨 0

↩ FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

If a law violates basic human rights, should people still follow it?

🗨 1

santhosh Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

"Ethical opinions change with time. What society accepts today may be rejected tomorrow. A stable society cannot run on changing opinions; it needs laws."

↩ VIJAY A Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

Without ethics, law is meaningless

🗨 0

↩ NILAVAN Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

Laws are only words written on paper. Ethics is the conscience that gives those words meaning. Without ethics, laws become tools of power, not justice.

🗨 0

↩ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

When ethics conflict, we use ethical reasoning to choose the greater good.
Law itself is created using those same ethical principles

🗨 0

↩ RITESH Y Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

Working legally eliminates the constant fear of law

🗨 0

↩ PALLAVI Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

Ethics should always come first because it is based on honesty, fairness, respect, and compassion. A person guided by ethics will make the right decision even when no law exists

🗨 0

↩ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

Our Constitution begins with Justice, Liberty, Equality and Fraternity. These are ethical values that guide our laws.

🗨 0

↩ PALLAVI Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Ethics is the heart of justice; law is only its framework. Without ethics, laws lose their true purpose.

🗨 0

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Laws are effective only when they are rooted in ethical principles; otherwise, they become mere rules without justice

🗨 0

↩ GUNDRAJULA HARSHITHA Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Laws cannot cover every situation, but ethics can guide our decisions.

🗨 0

↩ NILAVAN Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Law says, 'Don't do it or you'll be punished.' Ethics says, 'Don't do it because it's wrong.' Which person would you trust more?..

🗨 0

↩ VIJAY A Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

There is a law against taking bribes.
But if a police officer has no ethics, they can still accept a bribe.

Point:

"Law exists, but ethics makes a person follow the law."

🗨 0

↩ MOHAMMED IBURAHIM M Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Many countries have similar laws, but they are respected because their citizens act ethically.

🗨 0

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Laws are not above ethics; they are society's attempt to put ethical values into practice. If ethics changes, laws eventually change too

🗨 0

↩ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Dr. Ambedkar didn't write laws in isolation—he built the Constitution on ethical ideals like justice, equality and human dignity

🗨 0

↩ PALLAVI Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Ethics should always come first because it is based on honesty, fairness, respect, and compassion. A person guided by ethics will make the right decision even when no law exists.

0

↩ RITESH Y Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

ethics stops the act of being interest with other confidential

0

↩ BANDAM AKSHAY Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Unethical laws should be changed because morality is more important than blind obedience.

0

↩ MOHAMMED IBURAHIM M Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Countries become developed when ethics becomes a habit, not when laws become stricter.

0

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

If laws were enough, corruption would not exist in countries with strict legal systems

0

↩ DIVYA. M Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Many acts of kindness are ethical, not legal requirements.

0

↩ VIJAY A Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

People protest at Jantar Mantar because they believe something is ethically wrong, even if the existing laws do not fully address their concerns. Their ethical values push them to demand better laws and justice

0

↩ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

A society with ethical people needs fewer laws, but a society with only laws can never guarantee ethics

0

↩ FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Can a society achieve justice by following laws without ethics?

0

↩ MOHAMMED IBURAHIM M Jul 25, 2026 04:47am

A law book cannot build a nation. The character of its people does.

0

↩️ DIVYA. M Jul 25, 2026 04:47am

Ethics promotes honesty, integrity, fairness, and responsibility

🗨️ 0

↩️ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:47am

In conflicts like Gaza, people around the world don't ask only, 'Is it legal?' They also ask, 'Is it ethical to let innocent civilians suffer?' That shows ethics goes beyond law.

🗨️ 0

↩️ NILAVAN Jul 25, 2026 04:48am

Students protested because their ethical values were violated—not because they had already won a legal case

🗨️ 0

↩️ BALA SIVA Jul 25, 2026 04:48am

If ethics is less important than law, why are unjust laws changed instead of blindly followed?

🗨️ 0

↩️ NILAVAN Jul 25, 2026 04:48am

Ethics raised the question before the law gave an answer

🗨️ 0

↩️ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:49am

The word is 'Ethical Hacking,' not just 'Legal Hacking.' Ethics is what separates a white-hat hacker from a cybercriminal

🗨️ 0

↩️ DIVYA. M Jul 25, 2026 04:52am

Unethical laws can exist, but ethical values help change them.

🗨️ 0

↩️ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:57am

Law is written on paper, but ethics is written in our conscience.
Ethics guides us to do what is right, even when no one is watching.

🗨️ 0

↩️ MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 04:59am

If there were no police or any government officials around, what would stop a good person from doing wrong? Ethics, not law.

🗨️ 0

↩️ LOKESH S Jul 25, 2026 05:01am

What made lawmakers change those laws? It wasn't the law itself—it was people demanding justice based on ethical principles like equality and human dignity. Ethics inspired the change; law simply formalized it

0

MOHAMMED SABIQ Jul 25, 2026 05:01am

Law is made by humans, but ethics makes us human.

0

Team B :Law First

SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:32am

- Ethics differ between people and cultures, but laws create a common standard.

2

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:33am

"Laws may create a common standard, but that standard is not always fair. Ethics helps improve unfair laws."

FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

A law can be legal, but without ethics, it may never be just.

SHY SQUIRREL Jul 25, 2026 04:32am

Depends on law the ethics is decided and regulated always

2

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:34am

"No. Laws are created based on ethical values, not the other way around."

FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Laws are created based on ethical values; ethics does not depend on law—law depends on ethics.

BRAVE GECKO Jul 25, 2026 04:32am law is a system of rules and regulations created and enforced by the government to maintain order, protect people's rights, and ensure justice in society.

2

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

"Governments can make mistakes, but ethical principles help correct unjust laws."

pallavi Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Ethics is the foundation of a just society. Laws can tell us what is legal, but ethics teaches us what is right. Without ethics, laws can become unfair and lose their true purpose

G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:33am

Most people don't follow ethics they follow laws according to the situation

2

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

People follow laws because of fear of punishment, but ethics motivates them to do the right thing even when no one is watching."

FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

People may follow laws out of fear of punishment, but they follow ethics out of conscience.

KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:33am

A law is an official rule that everyone in a country or region should obey.

2

Nilavan Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

Slavery was once legal but unethical.

BANDAM AKSHAY Jul 25, 2026 04:49am

Ethics inspire change; laws make it effective.

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:34am

1. "That's true, but not everyone chooses to do the right thing when no one is watching. That's why we have laws—to make sure everyone follows the rules."

🗨 1

FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Laws can force obedience, but only ethics inspires people to do the right thing when no law exists.

↩ TREELINE PACER Jul 25, 2026 04:34am

laws keep everyone safe and equal

🗨 1

Mohammed sabiq Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

If law always kept everyone safe and equal, why do governments keep changing laws? Laws are amended because they are sometimes unfair or outdated. Ethics is what tells us they need to change

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:34am

A nation cannot be governed by personal beliefs—it must be governed by law

🗨 1

Vijay A Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Law tells people what they must do. Ethics tells people what they should do. Without ethics, even laws can become unjust.

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Laws create a written, uniform rulebook that applies to everyone equally within a society, preventing confusion and chaos.

🗨 0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

The most important law in ethical hacking is to obtain explicit authorization before accessing or testing any system 🙄

🗨 0

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:35am

Laws have legal consequences that actively deter harmful behavior and maintain peace and safety in society.

🗨 1

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

"Fear of punishment may stop some actions, but ethics prevents harmful intentions."

↩ JAYAPRSKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:36am

Ethics is subjective, but laws create a common standard.

🗨 0

↩ KESHAVAN KUMAAR SS Jul 25, 2026 04:36am

Ethical beliefs belong to individuals, while laws represent society's collective decision.

🗨 0

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:36am

Sometimes the majority thinks something is ethical, but it's unfair to minorities.

🗨 0

↩ JAYASRI K Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

law gives equal justice to everyone

🗨 2

FLORACE ALLEN ATHISAYARAJ F Jul 25, 2026 04:48am

Equal laws do not always produce equal justice; ethics helps ensure fairness where laws fall short.

jayasri k Jul 25, 2026 04:55am

personal ethics vary ,but the law ensures equal treatment for every one

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

If ethics came first, everyone with good morals would automatically follow the same rules. But society still needs laws because personal ethics are unreliable and subjective.

🗨 0

↩ JAYASRI K Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

rules are needed for everyone to live together

🗨 0

↩ AKTCHAYA A Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

Laws clearly define what is allowed and what is prohibited

🗨 0

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

Ethics may inspire principles, but without law, those principles are just opinions. Law turns moral concepts into enforceable rights and order.

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:37am

The real foundation of law isn't ethics—it's the authority of the state. A law is binding because the government enforces it, not because everyone believes it's morally right.

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Ethics may inspire some laws, but it cannot enforce them. Law doesn't exist because everyone is ethical; law exists because everyone isn't. That's why society survives on law, not ethics.

🗨 0

↩ JAYASRI K Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

laws are stronger than personal opinions

0

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

While ethics encourages good behavior, relying on personal morality alone isn't enough to prevent harm. Laws ensure that even those who choose to ignore ethics are held accountable to protect society.

0

↩ NITHIYASHREE M Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

sometimes law can be unfair but we still depend on law if something unethical happens

0

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Imagine a judge deciding cases based only on emotions.
Justice would become inconsistent.
Law creates fairness.

0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:38am

Law is the foundation of justice, order, and equality in society 🕶

0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Take NEET in Tamil Nadu. People have very different ethical opinions about whether it is fair or unfair. But regardless of those opinions, the law decides how medical admissions happen—not personal ethics.

0

↩ JAYASRI K Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

law creates discipline in society

1

Lokesh S Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Discipline based only on fear disappears when enforcement disappears. Ethics creates lasting discipline because it comes from conscience.

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Can a law ever be truly effective if the majority of society believes it is morally wrong?

0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

No one is above the law 🙄

0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

"Even Anna worked through the legal system. He didn't just rely on ethics or personal beliefs—he contested elections, formed a government, and brought changes through laws and policies. If ethics alone were enough, there would have been no need to become the Chief Minister and pass laws.

🗨 0

↩ AKTCHAYA A Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Each organization or company has their own ethics if they follow based on their ethics and new issues will be created

🗨 0

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:39am

Suppose you discover medical records online.

Ethics might tell you to investigate.

Law says:

Don't access personal data without authorization.

Privacy laws exist for a reason.

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

"Periyar challenged the ethics and social morals of his time because he believed many accepted 'ethical' practices, like caste discrimination, were unjust. Real change happened only when governments passed laws against untouchability, enabled equal rights, and introduced social justice measures. This shows ethics alone wasn't enough—law was needed to bring change."

🗨 0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

A strong legal system protects both freedom and security 🤖

🗨 0

↩ KESHAVAN KUMAAR SS Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

Many ethical principles become effective only when enforced by law.

🗨 0

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

Ethics creates debate law creates decisions.

🗨 0

↩ JAYASRI K Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

strong laws create a strong nation

🗨 0

↩ NITHIYASHREE M Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

ethics can be believing but people still believe in law

🗨 0

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

What happens when two good ethical principles conflict with each other—how can the law resolve it?

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:40am

"Ethics depends on what society believes is right, but law decides what society must protect. When society's ethics failed, the law stepped in to deliver justice."

🗨 0

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Is the goal of law to enforce ethics, or merely to keep peace and order

🗨 0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Without law society would descend into chaos 🤯

🗨 0

↩ GIRIDURGESH Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

law creates rules that must everyone want to follow is also a type of ethics

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

"The biggest weakness of ethics is that there is no universal definition of right and wrong. What one person considers ethical, another person may reject. But law creates one common standard that everyone must follow."

🗨 0

↩ AKTCHAYA A Jul 25, 2026 04:41am

Law can protect human rights ,equality and justice and public safety but ethics cannot gurantee these protection

🗨 0

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Laws reflect the country

🗨 1

Mohammed Ibrahima M Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

Good laws come from the ethical values of society; ethics shapes laws, not the other way around

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Good intentions do not justify illegal actions. Saying "I hacked to help" it may sound ethically correct but it does not erase the fact that unauthorized access is a crime.

🗨 3

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

"Intentions matter. Ethical decisions consider both the intention and the impact, not just whether a law was broken."

Lokesh S Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

We are not arguing that every ethical intention should override the law. We are arguing that ethics should guide the creation and improvement of laws. History shows that many ethical actions challenged unjust laws and eventually changed them

Divya. M Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

"Many social reforms began when people challenged laws they believed were unethical."

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:42am

Justice is meaningful only when laws are applied fairly 🙄

🗨 0

↩ GIRIDURGESH Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

not like ethics which can be neither follow or can be ignore

🗨 0

↩ GIRIDURGESH Jul 25, 2026 04:43am

not like ethics with can be either follow or not

🗨 0

↩ GIRIDURGESH Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Without laws, society would become disorganized and unsafe.

🗨 0

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

The difference between an ethical hacker and a cybercriminal is legal authorization.

That cybercriminal might have done right in few people's point of view like ethically but it illegal. Both may use similar technical skills, but only one has permission to test the system.

🗨 0

↩ BHARGAV Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

law as more power in this nation

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

"If we depend only on ethics, the majority decides what is right. But history shows that majorities can be wrong. Law protects minorities even when society's ethics fail."

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

"Ethics is a suggestion; law is a responsibility. Ethics asks people to do the right thing, but law ensures they cannot do the wrong thing."

🗨 0

↩ AKTCHAYA A Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

Many ethical principles become effective only after converting to law, So without legal enforcement ethics are not considered in our society

0

↩ GIRIDURGESH Jul 25, 2026 04:44am

The strong point is ...

Ethics depend on personal beliefs, but laws are backed by legal punishment.

0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

"If ethics was always the foundation of justice, societies would never have practiced slavery, caste discrimination, or inequality. Many things that were once considered socially acceptable are now illegal because laws corrected society's mistakes."

2

Lokesh S Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Exactly! Those practices ended because people first realized they were unethical. Laws did not suddenly become moral on their own—ethical movements and courageous individuals pushed governments to change the laws. Ethics corrected society first; laws followed.

Gundrajula Harshitha Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

"It was ethical leaders who challenged slavery and discrimination before the laws changed."

↩ JAYASRI K Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

the law protects both rights and responsibilities

2

Lokesh S Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Ethics encourages the peoples to follow the laws

jayasri k Jul 25, 2026 04:53am

not everyone has the same ethics ,but everyone must obey the law

↩ BHARGAV Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Laws prevent chaos by setting clear rules for everyone.

0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Law is the backbone of a civilised society 🐱

0

↩ G. NITHYA SREE Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

Law ensures equal treatment in the society

0

↩ GIRIDURGESH Jul 25, 2026 04:45am

so ethics is a option, and laws is must to bee followed

0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Laws protect the rights and freedoms of every citizen 🐱

🗨 0

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

If ethics should take priority over law, who gets to decide whose personal ethics are right when two good people completely disagree?

🗨 0

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

I hack a government website to expose corruption." ethically i am Promoting transparency. But legally i am just committing Cybercrime a and unauthorized access.

🗨 0

↩ BHARGAV Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

The rule of law prevents those in power from acting arbitrarily.

🗨 0

↩ SANTHOSH Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

A society cannot survive by hoping everyone has the same morals. It survives because laws create boundaries that protect everyone, even from the failures of human ethics."

🗨 0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:46am

Equality before the law is the cornerstone of fairness 😊

🗨 0

↩ ROHAN Jul 25, 2026 04:47am

If ethics alone were enough, every hacker could claim they were helping. The law is what separates an ethical hacker from a criminal.

🗨 0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:47am

The law protects the innocent and punishes the guilty 🙄

🗨 0

↩ KAVISHHHHHHHHH Jul 25, 2026 04:48am

The law should serve everyone equally, without discrimination 😞

🗨 0

↩ JAYAPRAKASH Jul 25, 2026 04:54am

If every individual is allowed to break a law whenever they personally feel it violates their ethics, doesn't society collapse into chaos?

🗨 0

Ask your queries

